PER CURIAM

Robert Benjamin Brackett was convicted of possession of methamphetamine, Idaho Code § 37-2732(c)(1). The district court imposed a unified sentence of four years, with a minimum period of confinement of two years, but after a period of retained jurisdiction, suspended the sentence and placed Brackett on supervised probation for three years. Brackett appeals, contending that the underlying sentence is excessive.

Sentencing is a matter for the trial court’s discretion. Both our standard of review and the factors to be considered in evaluating the reasonableness of a sentence are well established and need not be repeated here. See State v. Hernandez, 121 Idaho 114, 117-18, 822 P.2d 1011, 1014-

15 (Ct. App. 1991); State v. Lopez, 106 Idaho 447, 449-51, 680 P.2d 869, 871-73 (Ct. App. 1984); State v. Toohill, 103 Idaho 565, 568, 650 P.2d 707, 710 (Ct. App. 1982). When reviewing the length of a sentence, we consider the defendant's entire sentence. State v. Oliver, 144 Idaho 722, 726, 170 P.3d 387, 391 (2007). Applying these standards, and having reviewed the record in this case, we cannot say that the district court abused its discretion.

Therefore, Brackett's judgment of conviction and sentence are affirmed.
