

SUMMARY STATEMENT

Sadid v. I.S.U., Docket No. 37563

The Supreme Court unanimously affirmed in part and vacated in part the judgment of the district court, affirming the summary judgment, but remanding for determination of reasonable attorney fees on the breach of contract claim. This is an appeal from a summary judgment dismissing a complaint by an engineering professor who alleged that Idaho State University had retaliated against him because of his comments criticizing the administration that had been published in a local newspaper over several years and that the University had breached his employment contract.
