Idaho Rules of Civil Procedure Rule 16(j). Mediation of Child Custody and Visitation Disputes.

(1) Definition of "Mediation". Mediation under this rule is the process by which a neutral mediator appointed by the court or agreed to by the parties assists the parties in reaching a mutually acceptable agreement as to issues of child custody and visitation. The role of the mediator is to aid the parties in identifying the issues, reducing misunderstandings, clarifying priorities, exploring areas of compromise and finding points of agreement. An agreement reached by the parties is to be based on the decisions of the parties, and not the decisions of the mediator.

(2) Matters Subject to Mediation. All domestic relations actions involving a controversy over custody or visitation of minor children at the pre-trial, trial and post-decree stages in the courts of this state shall be subject to mediation regarding issues of custody, visitation, or both.

(3) Selection of Mediator. The court shall permit the parties to select a mediator from the list of registered mediators compiled by the Supreme Court and maintained by the Administrative Director of the Courts. If the parties are unable to select a mediator, the court shall appoint one.

(4) Requirement to Attend Parent Education and Mediation Orientation. The district court of any judicial district may provide by local rule that all parties to any domestic relations case involving children, whether or not a trial or contested case has been scheduled, be required to attend such parent education and mediation orientation, unless excused by the court.

(5) Authority of the Court. A court shall order mediation if, in the court's discretion, it finds that mediation is in the best interest of the children and it is not otherwise inappropriate under the facts of the particular case.
